ACCA Early Career Workshop and AMIS IAAER 2019 Joint Conference in Bucharest, Romania

Since 2008 IAAER organizes annual paper development workshops for early career consortia on the days preceding the International Accounting and Management Information Systems (AMIS) conference in Bucharest, Romania. ACCA provides generous financial support for this workshop and supported 11 presenters and 10 other young researchers from Romania, Czech Republic, Poland and Turkey during this year's workshop on June 3-4. Participants benefited from the presentations and feedback offered by 10 international mentors. The program included four panels and presentations on methodological issues, advice on how to conduct research and publish in international journals, and five sections where young scholars presented their research proposals and received individual feedback.

Following the workshop, 130 participants from 16 countries, academics and practitioners alike, attended the joint AMIS IAAER conference, held on June 5-6 in Bucharest, Romania. The program included six panels and 17 parallel sessions with 55 papers presented. IAAER co-organized two major panels. “The audit of the future”, moderated by Holger Erchinger (KPMG and IAAER Board of Advisors) and featuring Prof. Keryn Chalmers (Swinburne University of Technology and IAAER President) as well as “Financial reporting in a two-GAAP world”, moderated by Prof. Katherine Schipper (Duke University and IAAER past president) stimulated vibrant discussions among the conference delegates.

IFAC’s new approach to advancing Accountancy Education

With the IAESB’s discontinuation beyond June 2019, IFAC has announced its plans for transitioning to a new approach to advancing accountancy education at the global level.

Details on the new approach to advancing accountancy education are available here.
