

CALL FOR RESEARCH PROPOSALS AND PARTICIPATION

IAAER APCAM

Latin American Accounting Scholars Research Workshop

9 September 2020

Immediately Preceding

The APCAM IAAER International Congress on Innovations in Teaching Accounting and Business International Conference for Accounting Educators Mexico City

The International Association for Accounting Education and Research (IAAER) and APCAM will host an Accounting Scholars Research Workshop in Mexico City on 9 September 2020. The workshop will be held in conjunction with the APCAM IAAER International Congress on Innovations in Teaching Accounting and Business International Conference for Accounting Educators. The objectives of the workshop are to provide scholars from Latin America with feedback on their research proposals and to help develop their research skills. Representatives of IAAER will select the research projects to be presented during the workshop and will attend the workshop to provide feedback and guidance to the participants. The workshop is open to all accounting scholars holding or pursuing a terminal degree that are affiliated with higher education institutions in Latin American countries and that are committed to improving their research skills capacity.

The workshop will run all day Wednesday 9 September 2020. During the morning sessions internationally recognized scholars will lead sessions designed to increase participants' research skills (for example, identifying research topics, how to start a research project, identifying co-authors, and basic research design issues). Participants will be expected to study assigned readings to prepare for these sessions. Translation into Spanish will be provided for the morning sessions.

Latin American accounting scholars are invited to submit research proposals (i.e., paper ideas or research projects in the pilot testing phase) to be considered for presentation at the workshop on Wednesday afternoon. Up to 12 proposals will be selected for presentation. Following each presentation, IAAER mentors/faculty will provide guidance on ways to increase the quality of the research and its publication potential.

Research proposals should be submitted in word format on or before 1 March 2020 to Professor Donna Street at dstreet1@udayton.edu. Proposals should not exceed ten pages (excluding references). All submissions should be double-spaced, utilize size 12 Times New Roman font, and be in English. Each submission should include a brief (one page or less) bio of the author including the author's current employer (university) and the author's doctoral granting institution and the date the PhD was received (or in the case of doctoral candidates the anticipated date for receiving the PhD). Only submissions adhering to the guidelines will be considered.

Authors tentatively selected to present their proposals at the workshop will receive written feedback to assist them in revising and improving their proposal by 1 April 2020. Authors are to submit their revised proposals accompanied by a reply detailing how they have addressed, will address, or why they cannot address each of the reviewers' comments and recommendations by 1 June 2020. Following a second review of the proposal and the reply to reviewers, a final decision regarding the proposal's acceptance will be announced by 1 July 2020.

Presenting authors are to attend both the entire workshop and the entire APCAM IAAER 2020 conference on 10-11 September 2020.

There is no fee for attending the workshop. However, space is limited. All participants (presenting and non-presenting) must register their interest in advance. Please register your interest in attending the workshop and an abbreviated CV via email by 1 July 2020 to dstreet1@udayton.edu. Early application is encouraged.

APCAM and IAAER believe the Workshop will provide valuable feedback and networking opportunities for Latin American scholars.

The workshop coordinators will make their best effort to match the expertise of the participating faculty/mentors to the participants' research interests. While we do not exclude any themes related to the accounting field from the scope of this call, acceptance of proposals for presentation will also depend on the availability of faculty/mentors with specialized expertise in the subject area.

For further questions, to submit an interest of participation, or to submit a research proposal, please email Professor Donna Street, at dstreet1@udayton.edu.
